

Unit 5 Rap

Here comes the Industrial Revolution
We grew more cotton with Whitney's invention.
Immigrants and farmers became more urban
Thanks to trains, canals, and Robert Fulton.

American started pulling away,
The regions grew more distinct each day
The North and South did not agree
On tariffs, land, or slavery.

Calhoun argued for nullification
Webster spoke for Union--not secession!
Then came Clay to solve the disputes.
His compromises cooled many hot feuds.

Now, it's time for the Mexican War,
They didn't like Texans coming in their back door.
When all of it was said and done,
America now stretched clear to Oregon.

When gold was discovered in '49,
1000s rushed to claim their mines.
Wagon trails stretched from sea to sea,
In search of our Manifest Destiny.
